Schedule Announced For Shrine Club Special

Buck Tidwell Sure To Win Karem's Ring

Arrangements are going forward satisfactorily for the semi-annual pilgrimage of the Mexia Shrine Club special to the Karem ceremonial at Waco on Thursday, November 22nd. President Frank Bolton has been in Dallas all the week where it is said he has been gathering information on paraphernalia and other things of interest to make the trip this time the most notable event ever arranged by a Shrine club. In the meantime Secretary Sam B. Werner has been busy getting things together. He issued the following statement today:

The Jolly Bean Band of the Shrine Club holds its final rehearsal in the Odd Fellows Hall at 2 p. m. today. All band members are urged to be present. The band is typical of its name and uniforms are now being turned out by Noble Rube Maddox for the occasion, and the band promises to keep plenty of noise and music for the parades and on the train putting Mexia on the map in Waco as it did last May.

Four hundred arm bands have been ordered with the words "Mexia Shrine Club" to be placed on the arm of every passenger on the train that alone is anticipated to show Waco who they are.

Novelty Service has been appointed to have charge of the sale of peanuts, pop corn, and Yes We Have No Banquet, all this eating matter to be disposed of by the members in the train. There are to be a day's work and no sleeping out of it. Four on ten bags.

One more strong candidate, Elmer Buck, Tidwell, will be looking for a ride on the train which for children, women, and some more members they are going to know he's there alright. He must have your vote and will spare no expense to get it and the Shrine Club is behind him to a man.

A mammoth parade of the Shrine Club will start from the Masonic Temple on Commerce street, promptly at 7:30 a. m. Thursday morning, marching with the band and ring candidate to the T. & B. V. passenger station, where the train will be boarded at 8:15 a. m. Keep the hour in mind and come and join the parade all Shriners and Novices.

Tickets are now being distributed in the following places of business in Mexia:

Anderson and Horn, Druggists, Cox, Forney Drug Co., Davis, Chocolate Shoppe, Hitt and Ellis Barber Shop, Majestic Pharmacy, Boston Store, and with a number of walking delegates on the streets and with the following Nobles in nearby towns:

Nobles Upham, Teague, Noble Tatum, Wertham, Noble Driver, Coolidge.

There should be no excuse for every one interested in securing tickets before Thursday and thereby save a delay to the train by securing them at the depot and if you would have the train move on schedule, get

Hardy Eubanks Made Member Of Board Of Directors

The Board of Directors of the Mexia Rotary Club announces the selection of Rotarian Albert H. Berry as the new President of the club to take the place of Col. A. E. Humphreys, the first President of the organization, now of Denver. The club voted last Thursday to make the famous wildcatter, President Emeritus of the Mexia organization.

Mr. Berry is a charter member of the Mexia Rotary club and bears the classification of Wholesale Grocer.

The election was by secret ballot and held Thursday at the regular weekly luncheon hour at the Majestic hotel dining room. At that time a new member of the Board of Directors was voted upon and Rotarian A. Hardy Eubanks was the choice of the members.

Dr. C. Perier McKenzie, Vice President, has been conducting the club in the absence of the President and it is claimed with great credit.

Rotarian Berry is well known throughout this section as a man ably fitted for his new duties and it is a safe prediction, members assert, that Mexia Rotary will continue to hold a high place in the Rotary world under his guiding direction. He like the first President of the local organization and who worked to bring the organization to Mexia, it is claimed, is a Rotarian by Nature, endowed with gifts as a leader of men, among men and intensely interested in service above self.

The present official family of the Mexia Rotary is as follows:

Albert H. Berry, President.
C. Perier McKenzie, Vice Pres.
A. Hardy Eubanks, Treas.
Ben F. Stollenwerk, Secretary.
Fred S. Karner, Sgt. at Arms.

Many guests were present Friday night at a house warming given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kendrick and family. The handsome home on Canton street is one of the finest in this section of Texas and lends to the beauty of the residential district in which it is located.

MOTHER "BOOTLEGGED" BLOOD FOR CHILDREN.

When physicians examined Mrs. Carrie McFeely, of Chicago, they were puzzled by her anemic condition. Inquiry revealed that the mother of five tubercular children, though healthy herself, had been "bootlegging" her blood in Chicago hospitals in blood transfusion operations in order to support her family after they had been deserted by her husband. In the last operation she yielded a quart of her blood, for which she received $50. The doctors notified her that another blood transfusion would kill her.

19 Killed In Violent Fighting

PARIS, Nov. 17.—Nineteen persons were killed and scores were injured in violent fighting in the Rhineland today, according to dispatches received here tonight.

Sixteen were killed in a village near Bonn when bands of armed peasants loyal to the Berlin government attacked the demonstrations being made by the Separatists.

Fifteen of the dead were Separatists while the peasants lost only one man. Many were injured on both sides. Two policemen and one worker were killed at Essen when the unemployed stormed the police guarding the gates Krupp plant.

Organization Starts Off With Big Banquet

Mexia Rebecca Assembly 190 is now a going and growing order. Friday night, the organization was perfected with 58 members in the presence of about 75, including the present members and visitors from other assemblies.

A banquet was tendered in the Odd Fellows Hall beginning at 7:30 and presided over by Mrs. J. J. Jackson of Teague, State Department President.

The Teague team put on the work and much enthusiasm prevailed throughout the evening, bespeaking a successful career for the Rebeccas of Mexia and community.

Splendid addresses were made by quite a number of those present, including J. L. Slatten, Grand Master, of Hillsboro and Judge Osborne Kennedy of this place.

The banquet spread was a very great attraction, a considerable portion of which soon disappeared during the course of the festivities.

Those present praise the Teague team very highly and also Mrs. Jackson for the splendid service rendered.

Election of officers followed with the following results:

Mrs. G. W. Hopson, Noble, Grand.
Mrs. F. Tomlinson, Vice Grand.
Mrs. F. Evans, Secretary.
Mrs. Dr. E. H. Hinchliffe, Treas.

The race was most spectacular.

In Memoriam led by two lengths. Going into the stretch, Zev gradually closed the gap and nozed out the Western horse.

Many spectators were unable to distinguish the winner until the judges made their announcement.

The return schedule has not been definitely decided, but it will be arranged to leave Waco at an hour suitable to the large majority of those present; it is expected the hour will be about 11:30 p. m., this however will be decided later.

The most important thing now is for every Shriner to get behind the movement and push hard and sell or buy one more ticket and make a much bigger showing than we did last time.

Other important announcements concerning the Shrine Club program will appear in Monday's News.

A big banner bearing the words "Prune Peddler for Mexia" is being painted to advertise Buck Tidwell's candidacy. His campaign manager, H. B. Littman, announced Saturday that the winners of the $5,000 in gold and the gobble offered by Buck Tidwell will be announced in the following Saturday's issue of The Mexia Daily News.

MY MOTHER

No other so dear,
No other so true,
No other so tender,
No mother like you.

You who gave to me life; you who nourished and tended; you who guided my baby feet, in the sweet ways I've wended. My memories, ever, are lovely and cherished. Each day formed fear years; before, they in time, perished. And you, my Mother, and my memories of you, sweet pal of mine, Mother. With the dear love of you. God was good when He gave you to me, my Mother. God was good when He made you my pal, no other. And now God sees fit to take you away! And leaves me just memories. For all of alway.

He is our father. He knows better than we, why our hearts must break and our sorrows must be. I cannot understand today or tomorrow, just why! But for your sake and God's, I will earnestly try and with his help and yours, my footsteps shall be in that same rigid pathway that you've taught to me. And if smiles there are, I'll find your smile everywhere. And if happiness offers, I will wed with Memories fair. I know in the Heaven God has made your home. You are ever close by though for I may roam, and you are still my dear pal. Your presence is near me and to ways that are right, your pilot order me.

My mother—

No other so dear,
No other so true,
No other so tender,
No mother like you.

MEXIA NEEDS ACTION

The News a few days ago listed more than a score of subjects that represented Mexia's needs, many of which have been "proposed" and very little done to bring about their realization. The fact that Mexia has made so many promises and failed to keep most of them and make them good is already reflecting with discredit upon this community. A pledge or a promise is something sacred. A community's word should be its bond, just as much as a man's word is his bond. Mexia's need now is action. The Mexia Daily News feels some embarrassment every time it meets with an opportunity to present a story about what is going to be done here. It fears someone will question its veracity, because, so far, its columns have been imposed upon to a most painful and conspicuous degree. The News is always ready to help put over any worthy project for the betterment of the community, county, state and nation, and all it asks is that it not be made "the goat" by telling its thousands of readers of what is going to be which never happens.

THE GOLD DIGGERS' WITH HOPE HAMPTON

The picture version of David Belasco's noted stage success "The Gold Diggers," has been announced for the National Theatre for Monday.

"The Gold Diggers," in its original form, enjoyed a two years run on Broadway and an extended showing in the principal cities of the country, every where meeting with the most unusual success.

This picture tells of the gay and merry life led by a certain class of chorus girls and actors, popularly known as "gold diggers." Aside from their regular profession, these young damsels take great pleasure in extracting money, clothing, jewels, entertainment, and in fact anything of value, from wealthy business men of their acquaintance, who want to have the variety and pleasure of such relations.

Two of the special features in this picture are the exact and true reproductions of a complete "behind the scenes" set showing in full detail the dressing rooms, the chorus girls dressing and getting ready for the act, and all the bustle and bustle of a real musical comedy, and a special scene showing Jerry Lamar, the leading lady, in a Spanish dance with all the true Spanish costume and atmosphere.

The picture is full of interesting and highly amusing scenes of the private life of a group of chorus girls who have all their time off stage taken up in entertaining a number of business men. One of the girls, Violet Jane, is really in love with a young man, Wally Saunders. Wally loves the girl and wants to marry her, but he fears that his rich uncle would disinherit him if he were to marry a show girl.

The scenes following show how Jerry Lamar plans and plots to inveigle the uncle into joining them and thus win him over to the proposed marriage. The gay parties and brilliant dresses shown here are rarely seen. Jerry succeeds at last and everything ends happily.

The screen adaptation of this play was written by Grant Crepner and the direction is by Harry Beaumont.

LITTLE FOXES

BUG POWER

By WICKES WAMBOLDT

The rolled-up force of an oft-repeated act, no matter how tiny and insignificant, is stupendous. Great things can be accomplished by the smallest sort of an organism if it stays on the job. The tiny coral insect can build a structure that will defy the mighty force of the ocean. These little creatures, scarcely noticeable to the naked eye, each adding its tiny effort to that of its fellows, rear great and impregnable reefs which are the backbones of islands, peninsulas, and possibly continents. The State of Florida virtually rests on the back of a coral bug.

There is a case on record where a swarm of mosquitoes stopped a train. It was on an up-grade through a swamp and they collected on the rails in such quantities that the huge driving wheels slipped and spun impotently.

The sand-fly is a minute thing, a little bigger than the point of a pin, but he has a bite like a horse. A cattle-man told me that he saw a swarm of these kill a great bull. They simply overwhelmed him.

There is a tiny beetle in California which, by keeping everlastingly at it, bores holes through sheathing metal that gets in its way.

In some countries ants carry away, bit by bit, the beams and underpinnings of houses.

It is a great object lesson these little creatures give us. We do not credit them with any intelligence. We say that whatever impels them is entirely instinct; and certainly their individual strength as compared to that of a man is absolutely negligible. They have no brain and they have no muscle and yet they show us what persistent application will do. They show us what staying on the job without letting up will accomplish.

The bee does what to the uninitiated would appear an impossible thing. He collects vast stores of a delightful sweet by picking out almost invisible particles from flowers. He is referred to as "the busy bee." He probably received this cognomen because he makes a good deal of fuss about his work and the impression has gone out that he works about all the time that he can see. Consequently as an example he has not been very popular.

It has been proven by observation, however, that the bee accomplishes his task without killing himself working. He actually puts in about eight hours a day and the rest of the time he crawls around the hive, flirts with the queen bee, stings people, and departs himself in such ways as may afford him relaxation.

Studying the lives of great men is inspirational. But we do not need to study the lives of men for inspiration; we can get this from studying the lives of bugs.

How Can a Poor Man Get Ahead?

The Only Daughter Who Saved $2,000 from Her College Allowance and from a Year's Work after Graduation.

(This is the ninth of twelve stories of wage earners and their families who have found the road to financial independence.)

By SAMUEL O. RICE, Educational Director
Investment Bankers Association of America.

It is more difficult for an attractive girl to save than it is for a girl who is not so attractive. As a consequence the story of a stenographer I know in an investment banking house who accumulated $20,000 in 17 years isn't particularly interesting. She was quite plain. She lived at home. There was apparently no incentive for spending. Her work kept her in touch with the sound investment security business and it was easy to pick dependable investments.

But the "only daughter" is attractive, a sorority girl, a graduate of Wisconsin University and the "baby" in a doting family. Her father is a railway conductor who has made wise use of his earnings; her mother, a level-headed woman who realized that daughter had a beautiful chance of being "spoiled rotten." Mother early began the work of giving daughter an idea of responsibility. From grammar school up through high school, two years at Northwestern University and two years at Wisconsin University, daughter had a gradually increasing allowance and was taught to spend it wisely and to save just as wisely.

The test of training came when daughter left home for Wisconsin University. Pretty and likable, in a sorority house with girls having generous allowances she might have been excused for overdrawing and for dipping a little into her savings.

"But I figured it was a game," the only daughter explained. "I couldn't be a quitter on mother. I didn't have a lot of things other girls had, but my clothes were nice and I had as good time as any of them. I took a business school course, after graduating from university, tried my hand as a saleswoman and now have a pleasant although not a high-salaried secretarial job. I don't deserve credit for saving $3,500. The family gave me little bonuses to encourage me. They made it easy. Saving taught me a lot, too."

Easy? How many college youngsters have you ever heard of who saved a single penny from things being made easy for them?

THE EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

DRY LAW IS SUCCEEDING,
WOOD TELLS ROTARIANS.

(Dallas News)

Rotarians of Dallas Wednesday afternoon applauded declarations that prohibition was successful and a permanent law of the land and formalized the community chest at a largely attended meeting at the Oriental Hotel. Lieutenant George Wood, divisional commander of the Salvation Army, was the speaker whose remarks were applauded, while the community chest endorsement followed introduction of a resolution describing the chest as the most equitable and efficient means of co-ordinating the work of the various philanthropic institutions of the city. The resolution was presented by a special committee composed of W. C. Harrickman, Joe E. Lawther and J. W. Stayton.

Applause, which amounted to almost a demonstration, greeted the assertion by Colonel Wood that "national prohibition is a success, it does prohibit and it is here to stay."

"Don't tell us that the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution has failed of its purpose. We of the Salvation Army know just how well it has succeeded."

"You hear on all sides about the business man who drinks the same as ever and of the flappers who fool with the stuff, but you aren't reminded by the enemies of prohibition that the tens of thousands of working men who formerly went broke at the saloons and slept in the gutters are no longer starving their families to death. Those enemies don't talk, either, of the bank accounts and little homes that are in these men's names now as a result of the abolition of the saloon."

Health and Happiness of Children Purpose of Farm Home of Yeomen

MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB

CHICAGO—Salvaging the under-privileged children of America will be the purpose of the $10,000,000 home for orphans and half-orphans which the Brotherhood of American Yeomen will establish.

Youngsters who through loss of parents, neglect or misfortune have been left to shift for themselves will be cared for in the home. These children who otherwise might be recruited to the criminal class will be built up in mind and body and moulded into useful citizens.

Prof. A. N. Farmer, a nationally known educator, will be in charge of the home. He has made a life study of the problem of the under-privileged child.

"The home," said Prof. Farmer, "will be a veritable city of child hood, with bank, stores, cottages for the children, school buildings, parks, playgrounds, shops, chapel and library."

"Life in the open, plenty of fresh air, milk, eggs and wholesome food will make for physical fitness in

CONFERENCE NOTES

TEMPLE, Texas, Nov. 15.—Second day's session. After the reading of minutes of yesterday's session, the roll of superannuates was called. Many feeling talks were made by these old heroes of the Cross. These were followed by great speeches by Bishop McMurray of St. Louis and Bishop Dickey in behalf of the superannuate endowment fund for $10,000,000 to be raised within 5 years. Bishop McMurray gave us an outline of the campaign and said American Methodism is 150 years old and is a mighty church with 10,000,000 members and do not propose to get off the side walk for any organization in the world. At the conclusion of this great address Alonzo Monk, pastor of the First Church Corsicana gave Bishop McMurray a check for $1010.00 being amount of quota for next year for that great church.

Arthur J. Moore, pastor of Trevis Park church, San Antonio, is preaching to great crowds each night. Wish all our people could hear his sermons for they are great. Dr. C. G. Hosenshell for 7 years a missionary to Korea is here. Here are some of the scintillations from his great address of yesterday afternoon. There have been 18,300,000 Centenary pledges paid 20 years ago. Korea had three charges supplied by 3 pastors. Today they have six large districts with 150 pastoral charges. Today the Methodist preacher is girding the world with the Gospel of Christ. The sun never sets on the Kingdom of the Methodist preacher.

Gossip says Dr. Goodrich of Waco will be transferred and stationed at First Church, Shreveport and Cullum Booth will take his place at Austin Avenue, Waco. More to follow tomorrow.—G. W. Kincheloe.

BLANCO COUNTY MAP BEING PREPARED

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 17.—A comprehensive geological map of Blanco and parts of surrounding counties is now being made by Professors H. P. Bybee and F. L. Whitney of the geology department of the University of Texas. The geologists are making a ground map, as well as geological map, as the only available detailed map of this part of the state was made in 1884, and does not apply to the new roads and marks. It is thought that the county is exceptionally suited for a state park, since there are places on the Perdado River that would make one of the most beautiful parks in the state if roads could be constructed to them, according to the geologists.

Buck's Banquet To Be A "Beer" Affair Monday

"Buck's Banquet" is the talk of the Mexia Shrine club.

H. B. Littman, alleged high salaried campaign manager for Dudley Tidwell, Mexia's ring candidate to the ceremonial at Waco stated late Saturday night that the big feed and fun would be given at the Majestic hotel Monday night at 7:30. All Shriners and their ladies and all noices are cordially invited to be present.

Bubbling over with enthusiasm already for the big trip to Waco Thursday, the burning point is expected to be reached by Monday night when the Shriners will gather to portray the stories of Tidwell and to tout 'em up for the event of events which will take place the coming Thursday.

Secretary Sam Werner is rushing out notices to all members of the Shrine club, notifying them to tell all Nobles of the big Buck's Banquet. That means it will be a "dear affair" to someone, it is said.

UNCLE SAM STUDIES FEET OF THE WORLD

Commerce Department Finds Shoe Leather Used the Same in Brazil as at Thebes—American Shoes Supreme.

IN HIS efforts to build up the foreign trade of the United States Uncle Sam is making a thorough study of the feet of the world. He is finding out which nations have long, narrow feet, which have short, broad feet, which have thick feet and which have thin.

Incidentally he is learning things about the foot customs of the globe that throw a bright light on the habits of the ancient Assyrians and Egyptians and which make the characters of Babylonian dancers and Roman emperors seem familiar ones.

Through the Bureau of Domestic and Foreign Commerce at Washington, linking the activities of consuls in all quarters of the world, he is finding out social tendencies and pedestrian requirements purely for the benefit of American manufacturers of shoes.

The shoe and leather manufacturers of the United States are in the thick of the survey, which has been under way for some time and which will be concluded in the near future. It has numerous reports from consuls in the various districts of Germany, France, Italy, Greece, Mexico, Jamaica, Peru, Bolivia, Holland, Brazil, Venezuela and other countries. They give very definite facts for the guidance of American manufacturers in conquering world trade. They also hold a great deal of romance and historical charm for those who care to study them analytically.

The manufacturer is delighted because they show beyond argument that American styles and the American built shoe are in the ascendancy in every corner of the globe.

Invading Europe. They are invading Europe. Since the war, Uncle Sam has learned, the German shoe has changed from the long, square appearance that for U. S. shoes bore a striking resemblance to it and the Germans are making and wearing the pointed toe and long "vamp" that distinguished the American one.

The French who lean toward short shoes with high heels, brief vamps and rounded toes, still cling fondly to this style, but the American contour is making big inroads even here, according to the reports of consuls. The short vamp and high heels were originally adopted for the purpose of shortening perspective and leading to deception as to the size of the foot. They are a sort of secret diplomacy. That they are giving place to the frank American confession of actual size seems to indicate that in shoes the doctrine of "open covenants openly arrived at" is attaining success.

Leather Most Used. The only American departure that is not being taken up to any extent is that of the substitution of other materials for leather. The majority of the world has always trod on leather and apparently is determined to continue doing so. In some of the older sections of Europe wooden clogs, often with leather uppers and leather inner-soles, are used. In the backward sections of South America sandals of rope are used when the people do not go entirely barefoot. Some French housewives used felt sandals in the house. These customs are still firmly entrenched, just as firmly as the use of leather for the majority of purposes. They give one of the evidences the bureau is uncovering of the essentially unchanging character of human nature.

Shoes Classified With "Valuables." This is further exemplified by a custom of Jamaica, where shoes are considered by the natives to be a considerable luxury. It is not uncommon on that island to see natives on their way to church or to a social gathering carrying their shoes in their hands. When they arrive at their destination they ceremoniously put them on and enter into the business of the occasion. An identical custom was observed in early Egypt. Men of rank in going from place to place were followed by servants who carried sandals. When occasion warranted these sandals were gravely placed on the aristocratic feet of their owners.

Brazil brings a parallel to Biblical times and to those of the Roman Empire. Brightly colored shoes, such as those mentioned in Exodus of "ram's hide dyed red," are dear to the Brazilian heart. And Brazilian damsels follow the custom of Julius Caesar, descendant of the Albanian Kings, who was the only Roman entitled to wear red shoes seven days a week. Even the New York girl would recently have considered it a hardship if she had to obey the rule that even the noblest Roman in Caesar's time observed on pain of death. That was to wear red shoes on no more than one day a week.

The persistence of the sandal and of the low shoe that approximates the sandal in the warmer countries of South America and even in southern France adds its testimony, too, to the perfection with which the earliest men in history solved the best use of shoe leather.

Leather Sandals Persist. In La Guaira, Venezuela, about nine-tenths of the inhabitants wear, according to the consul there, "sandals consisting of a heelless sole leather sole and a cloth top which covers the fore part of the foot. A cloth heel-strap holds the sandal in place." These sandals, or "alpargatas," if they were found beside his bed on arising by the earliest Egyptian of them all, would not amaze him. Egyptian shoes were made just that way.

with very high tops and heels, and of colored leather. They are called "chola" women and as with all Bolivian shoes have very high insteps. The consul at Callao, Lima, Peru, reports the shoes made for men are broad, short, high heeled, flashily finished and with many differently colored uppers.

"Quality," he writes, "is not the ruling factor in purchase, since five or six pairs of fancy shoes register higher socially than two or three pairs of plain quality shoes."

Rome reports that in Italian shoes the style and cut are extremely varied. Short, broad lasts seem most popular, while patent leathers, odd colors and fancy tops appeal to most buyers.

Returning to South America there is found an interesting survey of shoes in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, the Paris of that continent. The heat results in most men's shoes being oxfords, very few high shoes being made. Most of the women's shoes are pumps. Special style shoes, which sell for only a short time and are replaced by new designs are the rule here as in other mercantile countries.

"In the past," reports the consul, "the people always desired a shape which would make their feet look small. This is still true in the case of women's shoes at though recently a sharp pointed shoe was introduced which met with considerable success."

In Rio the principal colors are tan, black and white. Sport shoes of tan and white with outstanding designs are in moderate demand.

"These sport shoes," it is reported, "are made more for show than for comfort as is commonly the case in the United States. On account of the Centennial Exposition there was considerable demand for women's ball room shoes embroidered with various colored beads. The most common colors used were gold and silver."

Bright colored beaded shoes in various designs are usually made to order. Congress boots are produced in moderate quantities for sale in the interior of the country.

From France came the following reports, among others. The consul at Bordeaux writes:

"Formerly French boots and shoes had a very short vamp, and such shoes are still sold to a great extent. However, the present tendency is toward the American style with its long vamp, and the best ready-made shoes manufactured in France today are identical with the American styles."

The consul general at Havre reports that style is the dominant factor in trade and that quality and comfort are of only secondary importance. "The outstanding features of all French styles," he reports, "are round toes, short vamps and extremely high heels."

Reports from Germany are typified by that from the consul at Dresden. "The shoes manufactured in Germany," he states, "can scarcely, if at all, be differentiated from the American product. This is in marked contrast to the situation which existed until the outbreak of the war, when German shoes still had a long, square appearance and could be readily distinguished from the American product."

Our Beautiful Feet.

It is likely that as a result of Uncle Sam's present study the beauty of the world's feet will be improved. From various places, in South America particularly, come reports of a short, broad, thick foot that is far from the standards of beauty he believes. It is probably due to the style of shoes that have been used. That the American foot seems more beautiful even to the possessor of the afore-said stubby feet, seems proved by the universal liking the peoples of the earth are showing both by purchase and imitation, for the American way of shaping shoe leather.

For Good Looks and Sturdy Wear

In a Very Popular Style

Nothing could be more appropriate for the growing boy than this suit, which may be developed serviceably in a variety of attractive fabrics. It is made in sailor style, trimmed with narrow braid.

The simple smartness of this suit distinguishes it far above the ordinary, and it is easy for the home dressmaker to copy. Nothing could be more appropriate for the boy who is just beginning to go to school. The trousers are attached to a band, to which the lower edge of the sailor blouse is gathered. They are trimmed with large buttons and may hang in straight lines or be gathered into knickerbocker bands at the knees. The large collar is of self-material and is stitched with two rows of narrow braid. If cotton materials are used for the blouse the braid is, of course, mercerized. For woolen fabrics a silk braid should be used. About 1 1/2 yards will be needed to trim the collar. The emblem on the sleeve of the blouse may be embroidered, or it may be purchased for a small sum, and attached to the sleeve.

The diagram shows how the pocket is stitched to the edge of the hem of the placket, before the lower edge of the belt is finally stitched down. The reverse side of the pocket is basted to the reverse side of the hem. As the pocket is made of drill or some equally sturdy material, the thread used for the stitching should be strong. Many home dressmakers use linen thread in making boys' clothing because of its extra strength, considering that the wear it gives justifies the slightly increased cost of the thread.

There are many fabrics in which this suit may be duplicated. This season, for boys, as well as for men, fashion seems to give prominence to fine mixed casimires and chevilles. These come in herringbone weaves, plaids, plain effects, visible checks, serges and twillcords from which small boys' suits may be made.

For the Growing Boy

The smart colors are chiefly light and dark shades of brown, gray, tan and very dark navy blue. In the matter of ties, boys are rather fastidious this year. They like bright colors, as do the girls. With a dark suit a bright red or a green tie is quite appropriate. There are also many new plaids among the season's novelties.

Some of the suits for small boys that Paris has sent over for Autumn and Winter wear have bands of very narrow braid stitched down the sides. Many are made of brown black and dark blue velvet.

Satin Crepe for Nightgowns

A New Line Makes for Novelty

Here is a really skillful replica of the latest Paris fashion in nightgowns. It is trimmed with tucks, lace insertion and ribbon and the fashionable absence of sleeves adds to its interest.

The dominant new note in the season's lingerie is the introduction of satin crepe for nightgowns, step-ins, etc. Of course, this is a luxury in which brides will mostly indulge, but the creations that come from France may be duplicated in less expensive materials and trimmings.

This nightgown is smartly minus sleeves, as will be noted. The upper portion is formed of tucks, alternating with bands of insertion, and around the top and sides of the yoke is a narrower band of lace contrasting design, finished with an edging to match. The lower part of the armhole is definitely shaped, presumably for comfort. Of course, the woman who desires a sleeve or a shoulder cap, could easily add same by making a shoulder strap of lace or of the satin and stitching to it.

The fullness in the lower part of the gown is taken up with fine hand-run tucks, arranged in groups. These appear in both the front and back of the nightgown. The figure shows how the upper and lower sections of the garment are joined to a band. If preferred, linen tape may be used. The yoke is stitched to the upper edge of the tape, and the gown to the lower edge, each about 1/4 of an inch from the edge. Stitch down securely, either by hand or on the machine. Over this basic a band of lace insertion, or veining through which ribbon may be run, if desired. The insertion is then sewed down closely, with fine back-stitches.

The Latest Vogue in Nightgowns

The nightgown calls for 2 1/2 yards of crepe satin 36 inches wide, with 5 yards of wide and 2 yards of narrow lace insertion. Two and three-quarters yards of edging and 2 1/2 yards of ribbon complete the list of requirements. The quantities are the same if any other fabric than crepe satin is used, provided it is at least 36 inches in width.

HOME DRESSMAKING

By JEANNE HOLLAND
(Copyright 1923 by Pen-Art Service, Inc.)

Overblouse of Swaggy Design
are added deep, shallow puffs that are gathered at the lower edge into straight bands of velvet. Above the velvet band that serves for a cuff on each sleeve is a modified Grecian border, worked in outline stitch with heavy robe silk. Two shades of one color may be used in employing the velvet and embroidery for ornamental effect. If black is used for the blouse, then nothing would be smarter for the trimming than tan and Chinese blue, or tan and red, or pale yellow and green. While dark colors form the background of most of the blouses and frocks that come from Paris this season, the trimmings are certainly gay and spirited as it is possible to have them.

Combines Smartness and Economy
bands are smaller strips of velvet with the outline stitch worked around them. These strips are first attached to the blouse as pictured in Fig. 1, then they take the place of the little finger pocket of which Paris dress-makers are fond this year. The outline stitch embroidery is used again at the jointure of sleeve and extension, but only the velvet ribbon is employed at the ends of the extension, which is in through the front of the collar. The edges of the scarf are deeply fringed.

Indispensable to the Smart Wardrobe
Interesting to the woman who seeks to combine style with economy is this overblouse of satin crepe, enriched with bands of velvet ribbon and outlined with robe silk to simulate the effect of an embroidered border.

This overblouse is smart, yet of the practical type that conforms to the fashion of the season. At the same time it is gathered to a straight band of self-material, yet there is plenty of room for freedom. It may be made of crepe de Chine, Canton crepe, will silk or any of the materials of high luster that are appropriate for dressy or semi-dressy wear.

The neck is finished with a band of velvet, bound with the blouse material. This is quite a favorite idea with smart designers this season, and of course, what is true of Paris is true of the other style centers of the world. To the kimono sleeves

Walton Withdraws From Trial By The Sooner Legislature

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17.—“I cannot have a fair trial in this court. I hereby withdraw.” Governor J. C. Walton amazed the Senate Court impeachment, rising from a midst of his counsel and making this statement.

Shortly after Governor Walton withdrew, the senate court was thrown into an uproar by attempt of Senator Anglin, President Pro-Tem Senate, attack on Mr. Sprague one of Walton's counsels. Anglin was held off and the senate recessed for twenty minutes.

Mr. Anglin stated that he understood that all subpoenas for witnesses for the governor has been withdrawn. Sprague said he didn't believe such a statement had been made. Anglin screamed something about being called a “liar.”

The governor's statement followed the hearing of testimony regarding Ku Klux Klan offered by the executive counsel. Walton rose, pale of face and with voice not entirely steady said: “I have been sitting here fighting for honor and life. I don't wish to criticize any members of the court but I have reached the conclusion that I cannot have a fair trial in this court, thereby, for my sake and the sake of my wife and children upon which this unfair trial reflects, I withdraw.” “You may proceed as you see fit.”

Ouster of Governor Walton was made certain today by action of the suspended executive in withdrawing his defense.

The Governor and his counsel withdrew because the Senate Court which hearing impeachment charges brought by House Board managers refused to permit him to offer evidence involving outrages during his administration attributed to the Ku Klux Klan.

Senate Court proceeded with the trial and expects to reach a vote Monday or Tuesday. It is expected that the vote will favor ousting Walton. Judge Riddle, Chief counsel for the governor already has given notice that an appeal will be made to the Federal Courts.

Impeachment trial was entering another day of argument when the dramatic end came. Without warning, Walton arose from his seat beside his counsel table and announced withdrawal from trial, telling the Senate that they “could take whatever action they chose.”

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17.—Both sides agreed today it is highly probable the impeachment of Governor J. C. Walton will be voted by the Oklahoma Senate within a fortnight.

The House board of managers brought their case towards a close today, with little prospect, however, of completing it before Monday night. They are satisfied with the decision of the Senate court to shelve temporarily charges against the suspended Governor to which delinquencies of the Ku Klux Klan might be raised in defense.

The defense, convinced that as things stand, a sufficient majority exists in the Senate to impeach, bent every effort to bring the marked order and the Governor's fight there on, before the court.

Little Girl Has Leg Broken When Hit By an Auto

Last Friday, little Miss Ward, residing with her parents near the ball park in the south part of the city, was run over by an automobile sustaining a broken leg. She was crossing Commerce street in front of the Cox-Forrest Drug Store. It is said that she was looking backward at the time of the accident and ran into the side of the car which had already partly crossed her path, falling so that she fell under the rear wheels. Ladies were occupants of the car and they were driving slowly, spectators say, and they did not know of the accident until accosted down the street. They were much grieved at the accident. Gene Sinclair picked up the little girl, who appeared to be about 10 years old, and medical treatment was administered quickly.

This was two auto accidents for the twenty four hour period just preceding, J. R. Truett and Miss Edith Speer having been run over by a car at Ross and Commerce the night before.

BRITAIN'S SPLIT WITH FRANCE MOMENTARILY POSTPONED

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Nov. 17. Today's meeting of the Council of Ambassadors has been postponed, thus deferring the expected split between Britain and France.

It was anticipated that the Council would meet today and that British and French viewpoints would be so divergent that the session would break up. Cancellation of the meeting averts this.

It is surmised that the British and French Ambassadors' views on what shall be done with the former German Prince and control of German armaments are irreconcilable.

Premier Poincare's strong speech in the Chamber on Friday, wherein he expressed the hope of maintaining the Entente, but refused to change the French policy in any degree, has left the next move up to Britain.

Poincare, loudly cheered by the deputies at frequent intervals, hotly accused the British representatives in the Ambassadors' council of supporting the Germans against the French on some issues.

If the British stand pat, the Entente is as good as ended right now, it is believed here. Even without any open and spectacular split in a meeting of the Ambassadors' council, cooperation between the two great allies will be done with.

Poincare struck out in all directions. He denounced the plan for an expert examination of Germany's capacity to pay, recently put forward by Secretary of State Hughes, as a trick to force a reduction in reparations, engineered by foreign bankers, American and British, he said, need not expect payment of interwarred debts until Germany's reparations are paid.

The speech caused a sensation

among diplomats here and the opinion France will make no further effort was freely expressed that Britain and to maintain even a pretense of an Entente, but that each nation will go its own way in dealing with Germany.

In such a new alignment of the nations of Europe, France would have the support of Belgium and Britain, evidently can count on the support of Italy, judging from the speech made by Premier Mussolini in the Italian Chamber. The final, who is stating that he did not want a break with France, and pointed out that Italy could not stand by and see the German people destroyed by further overhauls upon their territory.

Perhaps, the French pointed out, in commenting on a statement of the Council of Ambassadors, Britain favored control of German armaments by small allied forces, but that each small force would be insufficient. Britain, he said, is unable to spare the troops for enforcement of the allied control.

“In such circumstances,” he would not find support on either side in the Ruhr and reinforced France' need for security and protection. Thus, France could abstain from taking such military action against Germany at any moment.”

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Despite the use of election news to the momentary suspension of the meeting, the split between Britain and France was not postponed.

“Hate back British policy,” said the headlines.

“Must find refuge to allow France to do away Germany.”

This news offset the destined pessimism caused by previous reports of Premier Poincare's speech.

MEXIA REBECCAS ORGANIZE ASSEMBLY 190

Schedule Announced For Shrine Club Special

Buck Tidwell Sure To Win Karem's Ring

Arrangements are going forward satisfactorily for the semi-annual pilgrimage of the Mexia Shrine Club Special to the Karem ceremonial at Waco on Thursday, November 22nd. President Frank Bolton has been in Dallas all the week where it is said he has been gathering information on paraphernalia and other things of interest to make the trip this time the most notable event ever arranged by the Shrine club. In the meantime Secretary Sam B. Werner has been busy getting things together. He issued the following statement today:

The Jelly Bean Band of the Shrine Club holds its final rehearsal in the Elks Hall at 2 p. m. today. All band members are urged to be present. The band is typical of its name and uniforms are now being turned out by Noble Rube Madden for the occasion, and the band promises to keep plenty of noise and music for the parades and on the train; putting Mexia on the map in Waco as it did last May.

Four hundred arm bands have been printed with the words "Mexia Shrine Club" to be placed on the arm if every passenger on the train; that alone is calculated to show Waco who's there.

A Newboy Superintendent has been appointed to have charge of the sale of peanuts, pop corn, and Yes We Have No Bananas; all this catering matter to be dispensed by the novices on the train. They are in for a day's work and no getting out of it. Four on 'em boys.

Our own ring candidate Rodney (Buck) Tidwell will be highly cheered on the trip; watch for circulars, banners and some more banners; they are going to know he's there alright. He must have your vote and will spare no expense to get it and the Shrine Club is behind him to a man.

A mammoth parade of the Shrine Club will start from the Masonic Temple on Commerce street, promptly at 7:30 a. m., Thursday morning, marching with the band and ring candidate to the T. & B. V. passenger station, where the train will be boarded at 8:15 a. m. Keep the hour in mind and come and join the parade; all Shriners and Novices.

Tickets are now being distributed in the following places of business in Mexia:

Anderson and Horn, Druggists, Cox, Forrest Drug Co., Gasco, Chocolate Shoppe, Hitt and Ellisor Barber Shop, Majestic Pharmacy, Boston Store, and with a number of walking delegates on the streets and with the following Nobles in nearby towns:

Nobles Upshaw, Teague, Noble Tatum, Wortham, Noble Driver, Coolidge.

There should be no excuse for every one interested in securing tickets before Thursday and thereby save a delay to the train by securing them at the depot and if you would have the train move on schedule, get

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 17.—Harry Sinclair's Zev retrieved honors lost to Carl Wiedmann's three year old, in Memoriam, by defeating him this afternoon at Churchill Downs in a match race of a mile and a quarter.

Many spectators were unable to distinguish the winner until the judges made their announcement.

Following is schedule of the special train:

Leave MEXIA 8:15 a. m.
Leave Tehuacana 8:28 a. m.
Leave Datura 8:40 a. m.
Leave Coolidge 9:10 a. m.
Leave Munger 9:22 a. m.
Arrive Hubbard 9:40 a. m.
Leave Hubbard 9:55 a. m.
Arrive Waco 11 a. m.

The return schedule has not been definitely decided, but it will be arranged to leave Waco at an hour suitable to the large majority of those present; it is expected the hour will be about 11:30 p. m., this however will be decided later.

The most important thing now is for every Shriner to get behind the movement and push hard and sell or buy one more ticket and make a much bigger showing than we did last time.

Other important announcements concerning the Shrine Club program will appear in Monday's News.

A big banner bearing the words "Prune Peddler for Mexia" is being painted to advertise Buck Tidwell's candidacy. His campaign manager, H. B. Littman, announced Saturday that the winners of the $5,000 in gold and the gobble offered by Buck Tidwell will be announced in the following Saturday's issue of The Mexia Daily News.

Hardy Eubanks Made Member Of Board Of Directors

The Board of Directors of the Mexia Rotary Club announces the selection of Rotarian Albert H. Berry as the new President of the club to take the place of Col. A. E. Humphreys, the first President of the organization, now of Denver. The club voted last Thursday to make the famous wildcatter, President Emeritus of the Mexia organization.

Mr. Berry is a charter member of the Mexia Rotary club and bears the classification of Wholesale Grocer.

The election was by secret ballot and held Thursday at the regular weekly luncheon hour at the Majestic hotel dining room. At that time a new member of the Board of Directors was voted upon and Rotarian A. Hardy Eubanks was the choice of the members.

Dr. C. Perier McKenzie, Vice President, has been conducting the club in the absence of the President and it is claimed with great credit.

Rotarian Berry is well known throughout this section as a man ably fitted for his new duties and it is a safe prediction, members assert, that Mexia Rotary will continue to hold a high place in the Rotary world under his guiding direction. He like the first President of the local organization and who worked to bring the organization to Mexia, it is claimed, is a Rotarian by Nature, endowed with gifts as a leader of men, among men and intensely interested in service above self.

The present official family of the Mexia Rotary is as follows:
Albert H. Berry, President.
C. Perier McKenzie, Vice Pres.
A. Hardy Eubanks, Treas.
Ben F. Stollenwerk, Secretary.
Fred S. Karner, Sgt. at Arms.
Col. A. E. Humphreys, President Emeritus.

Directors.
Albert H. Berry.
C. Perier McKenzie.
Jack Womack.
W. M. White.
Ernest Watson.
A. Hardy Eubanks.

Many guests were present Friday night at a house warming given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kendrick and family. The handsome home on Canton street is one of the finest in this section of Texas and lends to the beauty of the residential district in which it is located.

MOTHER "BOOTLEGGED" BLOOD FOR CHILDREN.

When physicians examined Mrs. Carrie McFeely, of Chicago, they were puzzled by her anemic condition. Inquiry revealed that the mother of five tubercular children, though healthy herself, had been "bootlegging" her blood in Chicago hospitals in blood transfusion operations in order to support her family after they had been deserted by her husband. In the last operation she yielded a quart of her blood, for which she received $50. The doctors notified her that another blood transfusion would kill her.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—Nineteen persons were killed and scores were injured in violent fighting in the Rhineland today, according to dispatches received here tonight.

Fifteen of the dead were Separatists while the peasants lost only one man. Many were injured on both sides. Two policemen and one worker were killed at Essen when the unemployed stormed the police guarding the gate to Krupp plant.

MY MOTHER

No other so dear,
No other so true,
No other so tender,
No mother like you.

You who gave to me life; you who nourished and tended; you who guided my baby feet, in the sweet ways I've wended. My memories, ever, are lovely and cherished. Each day formed fear years; before, they in time, perished. And you, my Mother, and my memories of you, sweet pal of mine, Mother. With the dear love of you. God was good when He gave you to me, my Mother. God was good when He made you my pal, no other. And now God sees fit to take you away! And leaves me just memories. For all of alway.

He is our father. He knows better than we, why our hearts must break and our sorrows must be. I cannot understand today or tomorrow, just why! But for your sake and God's, I will earnestly try and with his help and yours, my footsteps shall be in that same rigid pathway that you've taught to me. And if smiles there are, I'll find your smile everywhere. And if happiness offers, I will wed with Memories fair. I know in the Heaven God has made your home. You are ever close by though for I may roam, and you are still my dear pal. Your presence is near me and to ways that are right, your spirit enlure me.

My mother—

No other so dear.

No other so true,

No other so tender,

No mother like you!

MEXIA NEEDS ACTION

The News a few days ago listed more than a score of subjects that represented Mexia's needs, many of which have been "proposed" and very little done to bring about their realization. The fact that Mexia has made so many promises and failed to keep most of them and make them good is already reflecting with discredit upon this community. A pledge or a promise is something sacred. A community's word should be its bond, just as much as a man's word is his bond. Mexia's need now is action. The Mexia Daily News feels some embarrassment every time it meets with an opportunity to present a story about what is going to be done here. It fears someone will question its veracity, because, so far, its columns have been imposed upon to a most painful and conspicuous degree. The News is always ready to help put over any worthy project for the betterment of the community, county, state and nation, and all it asks is that it not be made "the goat" by telling its thousands of readers of what is going to be which never happens.

to someone, it is said.

THE GOLD DIGGERS

WITH HOPE HAMPTON

The picture version of David Belasco's noted stage success, "The Gold Diggers," has been announced for the National Theatre for Monday.

"The Gold Diggers," in its original form, enjoyed a two years run on Broadway and an extended showing in the principal cities of the country, everywhere meeting with the most unusual success.

This picture tells of the gay and merry life led by a certain class of chorus girls and actresses, popularly known as "gold diggers." Aside from their regular profession, these young damsels take great pleasure in extracting money, clothing, jewels, entertainment, and in fact anything of value, from wealthy business men of their acquaintance, who want to have the variety and pleasure of such relations.

Two of the special features in this picture are the exact and true reproductions of a complete "behind the scenes" set showing in full detail the dressing rooms, the chorus girls dressing and getting ready for the act, and all the hustle and bustle of a real musical comedy, and a special scene showing Jerry Lamar, the leading lady, in a Spanish dance with all the true Spanish costume and atmosphere.

The picture is full of interesting and highly amusing scenes of the private life of a group of chorus girls who have all their time off stage taken up in entertaining a number of business men. One of the girls, Violet Dane, is really in love with a young man, Wally Saunders. Wally loves the girl and wants to marry her, but he fears that his rich uncle would disinherit him if he were to marry a show girl.

The scenes following show how Jerry Lamar plans and plots to inveigle the uncle into joining them and thus win him over to the proposed marriage. The gay parties and brilliant dresses shown here are rarely seen. Jerry succeeds at last and everything ends happily.

The screen adaptation of this play was written by Grant Carpenter and the direction is by Harry Beaumont.

LITTLE FOXES

BUG POWER

By WICKES WAMBOLDT

The rolled-up force of an oft-repeated act, no matter how tiny and insignificant, is stupendous. Great things can be accomplished by the smallest sort of an organism if it stays on the job. The tiny coral insect can build a structure that will defy the mighty force of the ocean. These little creatures, scarcely noticeable to the naked eye, each adding its tiny effort to that of its fellows, rear great and impregnable reefs which are the backbones of islands, peninsulas, and possibly continents. The State of Florida virtually rests on the back of a coral bug.

There is a case on record where a swarm of mosquitoes stopped a train. It was on an up-grade through a swamp and they collected on the rails in such quantities that the huge driving wheels slipped and spun impotently.

The sand-fly is a minute thing, a little bigger than the point of a pin, but he has a bite like a horse. A cattle-man told me that he saw a swarm of these kill a great bull. They simply overwhelmed him.

There is a tiny beetle in California which, by keeping everlastingly at it, bores holes through sheathing metal that gets in its way.

In some countries ants carry away, bit-by-bit, the beams and underpinnings of houses.

It is a great object lesson these little creatures give us. We do not credit them with any intelligence. We say that whatever impels them is entirely instinct; and certainly their individual strength as compared to that of a man is absolutely negligible. They have no brain and they have no muscle and yet they show us what persistent application will do. They show us what staying on the job without letting up will accomplish.

The bee does what to the uninitiated would appear an impossible thing. He collects vast stores of a delightful sweet by picking out almost invisible particles from flowers. He is referred to as "the busy bee." He probably received this cognomen because he makes a good deal of fuss about his work and the impression has gone out that he works about all the time that he can see. Consequently as an example he has not been very popular.

It has been proven by observation, however, that the bee accomplishes his task without killing himself working. He actually puts in about eight hours a day and the rest of the time he crawls around the hive, flirts with the queen bee, stings people, and departs himself in such ways as may afford him relaxation.

Studying the lives of great men is inspirational. But we do not need to study the lives of men for inspiration; we can get this from studying the lives of bugs.

How Can a Poor Man Get Ahead?

The Only Daughter Who Saved $2,500 from Her College Allowance and from a Year's Work after Graduation.

(This is the ninth of twelve true stories of wage earners and colored men and women who have found the road to financial independence.)

By SAMUEL O. RICE, Educational Director
Investment Bankers Association of America.

It is more difficult for an attractive girl to save than it is for a girl who is not especially attractive. As a consequence the story of a stenographer I know in an investment banking house who accumulated $20,000 in 17 years isn't particularly interesting. She was quite plain. She lived at home. There was apparently no incentive for spending. Her work kept her in touch with the sound investment security business and it was easy to pick dependable investments.

But the "only daughter" is attractive, a sorority girl, a graduate of Wisconsin University and the "baby" in a doting family. Her father is a railway conductor who has made wise use of his earnings; her mother, a level-headed woman who realized that daughter had a beautiful chance of being "spoiled rotten." Mother early began the work of giving daughter an idea of responsibility. From grammar school up through high school, two years at Northwestern University and two years at Wisconsin University, daughter had a gradually increasing allowance and was taught to spend it wisely and to save just as wisely.

The test of training came when daughter left home for Wisconsin University. Pretty and likable, in a sorority house with girls having generous allowances she might have been excused for overdrawing and for dipping a little into her savings.

"But I figured it was a game," the only daughter explained. "I couldn't be a quitter on mother. I didn't have a lot of things other girls had, but my clothes were nice and I had as good time as any of them. I took a business school course, after graduating from university, tried my hand as a saleswoman and now have a pleasant although not a high-salaried secretarial job. I don't deserve credit for saving $3,500. The family gave me little bonuses to encourage me. They made it easy. Saving taught me a lot, too."

Easy? How many college youngsters have you ever heard of who saved a single penny from things being made easy for them?

THE EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

DRY LAW IS SUCCEEDING.
WOOD TELLS ROTARIANS.

(Dallas News)

Rotarians of Dallas Wednesday afternoon applauded declarations that prohibition was successful and a permanent law of the land and formally endorsed the community chest at a largely attended meeting at the Oriental Hotel. Lieutenant George Wood, divisional commander of the Salvation Army, was the speaker whose remarks were applauded, while the community chest endorsement followed introduction of a resolution describing the chest as the most equitable and efficient means of co-ordinating the work of the various philanthropic institutions of the city. The resolution was presented by a special committee composed of W. C. Barrickman, Joe E. Lawther and J. W. Stayton.

Applause, which amounted to almost a demonstration, greeted the assertion by Colonel Wood that "national prohibition is a success, it does prohibit and it is here to stay."

"Don't tell us that the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution has failed of its purpose. We of the Salvation Army know just how well it has succeeded."

"You hear on all sides about the business man who drinks the same as ever and of the flappers who fool with the stuff, but you aren't reminded by the enemies of prohibition that the tens of thousands of working men who formerly went broke at the saloons and slept in the gutters are no longer starving their families to death. Those enemies don't talk, either, of the bank accounts and little homes that are in these men's names now as a result of the abolition of the saloon."

Health and Happiness of Children Purpose of Farm Home of Yeomen

MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB

CHICAGO—Salvaging the underprivileged children of America will be the purpose of the $10,000,000 home for orphans and half-orphans which the Brotherhood of American Yeomen will establish.

Youngsters who through loss of parents, neglect or misfortune have been left to shift for themselves will be cared for in the home. These children who otherwise might be recruited to the criminal class will be built up in mind and body and moulded into useful citizens.

Prof. A. N. Farmer, a nationally known educator, will be in charge of the home. He has made a life study of the problem of the underprivileged child.

"The home," said Prof. Farmer, "will be a veritable city of childhood, with bank, stores, cottages for the children, school buildings, parks, playgrounds, shops, chapel and library."

"Life in the open, plenty of fresh air, milk, eggs and wholesome food will make for physical fitness in each child. Special attention will be given to proper health habits. A suitable program of work in the home, garden and fields will be provided. Free as well as directed play and games will furnish healthful recreation.

"The children will be housed in cottages built to accommodate from twelve to fifteen. Each home will be in charge of foster parents carefully selected because of their special fitness to care for children and provide character training and affection each child should have."

The all-star cast is headed by Hope Hampton and wonderfully supported by Windham Standing, Louise Fazenda, Gertrude Short, Alec Francis, Jod Prouty, Arita Gillman, Peggy Brown, Margaret Seddon, Johnny Harron, Ann Cornwall, Edna Tichenor, Frances Ross, Marie Prade and Louise Beaudet.

It is a David Belasco production and a Warner Brothers classic of the screen.

Buck's Banquet To Be A "Beer" Affair Monday

"Buck's Banquet" is the talk of the Mexia Shrine club.

H. B. Littman, alleged high salaried campaign manager for Dodney Tidwell, Mexia's ring candidate to the ceremonial at Waco stated late Saturday night that the big feed and fun would be given at the Majestic hotel Monday night at 7:30. All Shriners and their ladies and all novices are cordially invited to be present.

Bubbling over with enthusiasm already for the big trip to Waco Thursday, the bursting point is expected to be reached by Monday night when the Shriners will gather to portray the glories of Tidwell and to tout 'em up for the event of events which will take place the coming Thursday.

Secretary Sam Werner is rushing out notices to all members of the Shrine club, notifying them to tell all Nobles of the big Buck's Banquet. That means it will be a "beer affair" to someone, it is said.

CONFERENCE NOTES

TEMPLE, Texas, Nov. 15.—Second day's session. After the reading of minutes of yesterday's session, the roll of superannuates was called. Many feeling talks were made by these old heroes of the Cross. These were followed by great speeches by Bishop McMurray of St. Louis and Bishop Dickey in behalf of the superannuate endowment fund for $10,000,000 to be raised within 5 years. Bishop McMurray gave us an outline of the campaign and said American Methodism is 150 years old and is a mighty church with 10,000,000 members and do not propose to get off the side walk for any organization in the world. At the conclusion of this great address Alonzo Monk, pastor of the First Church Corsicana gave Bishop McMurray a check for $910.00 being amount of quota for next year for that great church.

Arthur J. Moore, pastor of Trevis Park church, San Antonio, is preaching to great crowds each night. Wish all our people could hear his sermons for they are great. Dr. C. G. Hosenshell for 7 years a missionary to Korea is here. Here are some of the scintillations from his great address of yesterday afternoon. There have been 18,300,000 Centenary pledges paid 20 years ago. Korea had three churches supplied by 3 pastors. Today they have six large districts with 150 pastoral charges. Today the Methodist preacher is girding the world with the Gospel of Christ. The sun never sets on the Kingdom of the Methodist preacher.

Gossip says Dr. Goodrich of Waco will be transferred and stationed at First Church, Shreveport and Cullum Booth will take his place at Austin Avenue, Waco. More to follow tomorrow.—G. W. Kinchelee.

Tyler.—Timber cutting followed by land clearing for additional farming acreage throughout county.

Brownsville.—At least 60 carloads seed potatoes will be required to plant 2,600 acres this winter.

Depositors have $32,000,000,000 in the banks of the United States, according to official figures.

Rusk.—Insane hospital to be enlarged at cost of $85,000.

Honest Bill of Olive Hill Elected Governor.

William J. Fields has been elected Governor of the State of Kentucky, with a plurality of 40,000 votes. He is known in Kentucky as "Honest Bill of Olive Hill."

BLANCO COUNTY MAP BEING PREPARED

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 17.—A comprehensive geological map of Blanco and parts of surrounding counties is now being made by Professors H. P. Bybee and F. L. Whitney of the geology department of the University of Texas. The geologists are making a ground map, as well as geological map, as the only available detailed map of this part of the state was made in 1884, and does not apply to the new roads and marks. It is thought that the county is exceptionally suited for a state park, since there are places on the Perdoles River that would make one of the most beautiful parks in the state if roads could be constructed to them, according to the geologists.

Bellaire.—San Antonio and Aransas Pass Railroad establish local freight yards.

UNCLE SAM STUDIES FEET OF THE WORLD

Commerce Department Finds Shoe Leather Used the Same in Brazil as at Thebes—American Shoes Supreme.

IN HIS efforts to build up the foreign trade of the United States Uncle Sam is making a thorough study of the feet of the world. He is finding out which nations have long, narrow feet, which have short, broad feet, which have thick feet and which have thin.

Incidentally he is learning things about the foot customs of the globe that throw a bright light on the habits of the ancient Assyrians and Egyptians and which make the characters of Babylonian dancers and Roman emperors seem familiar ones.

Through the Bureau of Domestic and Foreign Commerce at Washington, linking the activities of consuls in all quarters of the world, he is finding out social tendencies and pedestrian requirements purely for the benefit of American manufacturers of shoe leather.

In his own precise language, he is making a world survey of the foot and shoe industry, but it is really more than that. Uncle Sam is resurrecting the ghosts of the past and determining the shape of footprints that the ghosts of the future will leave behind them on the sands of time.

The Shoe and Leather Manufacturers Division of the Bureau is in charge of the survey, which has been under way for some time and which will be concluded in the near future. It has numerous reports from consuls in the various districts of Germany, France, Italy, Greece, Mexico, Jamaica, Peru, Bolivia, Holland, Brazil, Venezuela and other countries. They give very definite facts for the guidance of American manufacturers in conquering world trade. They also hold a great deal of romance and historical charm for those who care to study them analytically.

The manufacturer is delighted because they show beyond argument that American styles and the American built shoe are in the ascendancy in every corner of the globe.

Invading Europe. They are invading Europe. Since the war, Uncle Sam has learned, the German shoe has changed from the long, square appearance that formerly distinguished it and the Germans are making and wearing the pointed toe and long "vamp" that distinguish the American one.

The French, who lean toward short shoes with high heels, brief vamps and rounded toes, still cling fondly to this style; but the American contour is making big inroads even here, according to the reports of consuls. The short vamp and high heels were originally adopted for the purpose of shortening perspective and leading to deception as to the size of the foot. They are a sort of secret diplomacy. That they are giving place to the frank American confession of actual size seems to indicate that in shoes the doctrine of "open covenants openly arrived at" is attaining success.

Leather Most Used. The only American departure that is not being taken up to any extent is that of the substitution of other materials for leather. The majority of the world has always trod on leather and apparently is determined to continue doing so. In some of the older sections of Europe wooden clogs, often with leather uppers and leather inner-soles, are used. In the backward sections of South America sandals of rope are used when the people do not go entirely barefoot. Some French housewives used felt sandals in the house. These customs are still firmly entrenched, just as firmly as the use of leather for the majority of purposes. They give one of the evidences the bureau is uncovering of the essentially unchanging character of human nature.

Shoes Classed With "Valuables." This is further exemplified by a custom of Jamaica, where shoes are considered by the natives to be a considerable luxury. It is not uncommon on that island to see natives on their way to church or to a social gathering carrying their shoes in their hands. When they arrive at their destination they ceremoniously put them on and enter into the business of the occasion. An identical custom was observed in early Egypt. Men of rank in going from place to place were followed by servants who carried sandals. When occasion warranted these sandals were gravely placed on the aristocratic feet of their owners.

Brazil brings a parallel to Biblical times and to those of the Roman Empire. Brightly colored shoes, such as those mentioned in Exodus of "ram's hide dyed red," are dear to the Brazilian heart. And Brazilian damsels follow the custom of Julius Caesar, descendant of the Albanian Kings, who was the only Roman entitled to wear red shoes seven days a week. Even the New York girl would recently have considered it a hardship if she had to obey the rule that even the noblest Roman in Caesar's time observed on pain of death. That was to wear red shoes on no more than one day a week.

The persistence of the sandal and of the low shoe that approximates the sandal in the warmer countries of South America and even in southern France adds its testimony, too, to the perfection with which the earliest men in history solved the best use of shoe leather.

Leather Sandals Persist. In La Guaira, Venezuela, about nine-tenths of the inhabitants wear, according to the consul there, "sandals consisting of a heelless sole, leather sole and a cloth top which covers the fore part of the foot. A cloth heel-strap holds the sandal in place." These sandals, or "alparagatas," if they were found beside his bed on arising by the earliest Egyptian of them all, would not amaze him. Egyptian shoes were made just that way.

with very high tops and heels, and of colored leather. They are for the "chola" women and as with all Bolivian shoes have very high insteps.

The consul at Callao, Lima, Peru, reports the shoes made for men are broad, short, high heeled, flashy finished and with many differently colored uppers.

"Quality," he writes, "is not the ruling factor in purchase, since five or six pairs of fancy shoes register higher socially than two or three pairs of plain quality shoes."

Rome reports that in Italian shoes the style and cut are extremely varied. Short, broad lasts seem most popular, while patent leathers, odd colors and fancy tops appeal to most buyers.

Returning to South America there is found an interesting survey of shoes in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, the Paris of that continent. The heat results in most men's shoes being oxfords, very few high shoes being made. Most of the women's shoes are pumps. Special style shoes, which sell for only a short time and are replaced by new designs are the rule here as in other mercurial countries.

"In the past," reports the consul, "the people always desired a shape which would make their feet look small. This is still true in the case of women's shoes although recently a sharp pointed shoe was introduced which met with considerable success."

In Rio the principal colors are tan, black and white. Sport shoes of tan and white with outstanding designs are in moderate demand.

"These sport shoes," it is reported, "are made more for show than for comfort as is commonly the case in the United States. On account of the Centennial Exposition there was considerable demand for women's ballroom shoes embroidered with various colored beads. The most common colors used were gold and silver."

Bright colored beaded shoes in various designs are usually made to order. Congress boots are produced in moderate quantities for sale in the interior of the country."

From France came the following reports, among others. The consul at Bordeaux writes:

"Formerly French boots and shoes had a very short vamp, and such shoes are still sold to a great extent. However, the present tendency is toward the American style with its long vamp, and the best ready-made shoes manufactured in France today are identical with the American styles."

The consul general at Havre reports that style is the dominant factor in trade and that quality and comfort are of only secondary importance. "The outstanding features of all French styles," he reports, "are round toes, short vamps and extremely high heels."

Reports from Germany are typified by that from the consul at Dresden. "The shoes manufactured in Germany," he states, "can scarcely, if at all, be differentiated from the American product. This is in marked contrast to the situation which existed until the outbreak of the war, when German shoes still had a long, square appearance and could be readily distinguished from the American product."

Our Beautiful Feet

It is likely that as a result of Uncle Sam's present study the beauty of the world's feet will be improved. From various places, in South America particularly, come reports of a short, broad, thick foot that is far from the standards of beauty he believes in. It is probably due to the style of shoes that have been used. That the American foot seems more beautiful even to the possessor of the afore-said stubby feet, seems proved by the universal liking the peoples of the earth are showing, both by purchase and imitation, for the American way of shaping shoe leather.

Mexia Trounces Ennis In Hard Fought Game, 6 To 0

Contest Best Yet Seen On Gridiron Here

A sunshiny day with a cool northerly breeze from the north welcomed the gridmen of Ennis Hi and Mexia Hi Friday afternoon at Nowlin Park where the two teams met on the gridiron to settle a little dispute. It was an ideal day for the game and there was quite a number of fans out to witness the fray.

Kendrick, Cox and Treadway were the outstanding stars of the contest for the Black Cats while Goble, Robbins, and Roland were the highlights for the Ennis aggregation.

Treadway proved himself a dangerous man when he was sent in in the second quarter at right half. He gained consistently through the Ennis team and handled the position of safety man fine. He is a good broken field runner and proved that he will deal nicely to teams during the next two years. Lucas and Thompson played good ball as well as Adams the big center who stopped many a bad looking end run.

The line up:

Ennis won the toss and chose to defend the north goal with the wind in their backs and to kick off. They kicked to Cox on the 10 yard line who returned it 25 yards to the 35 yard line. Cox hit center for 2 and Clover followed in the same place for 1. Kendrick made 7 around right end. Clover made 1 and the first down. Ennis offside penalty 5 yards. First down. Cox made 5 through left tackle. Buford made 5 left tackle, and first down. Kendrick made 5 through the line by side-stepping several Ennis men. Cox made 5 on a fake and first down. Kendrick made 1 through center. Lucas made 7 on a fake. Storey lost 1 on fake and the ball went over to Ennis on their 5 yard line. Cox held them for three downs and they punted 20 yards to Clover who returned 5 yards. Kendrick hit right end for no gain. Thompson hit 1 on fake. Kendrick hit left end for no gain. Cox punted 25 yards to Ennis 8 yard line. Held for three downs and then punted 15 to Clover who returned 7 yards. Cox made 4 through tackle. Buford made 2 left tackle. Clover failed to gain through center. Cox made 2 through left tackle but the ball went over to Ennis. Punted 25 to Clover. Ennis intercepted pass. Made 1 left end. Lost out of bounds. Made 1 right end. Punted 20 yards to Clover. Kendrick made 7 right end. Cox hit left tackle for no gain. Thompson lost 2 on fake. Cox punted 20 yards. Ennis made 1 through center. Made 1 right end. Lost 2 on fake. Punted 25 to Clover who returned 7 yards. Kendrick made 5 left end. Buford made 3 through Ennis made 6 through left tackle. center. Cox punted 15 out of bounds. Made 4 yards and first down through center. Made 1 on fake. Lost 1 on right end. Punted 30 yards behind Mexia goal. Mexia ball on 20 yard line. Kendrick made 7 yards through tackle. Cox made 2 through center Kendrick made 4 and first down around right end. Cox and Kendrick made another first down as quarter ended.

Cox punted 25 to Ennis who returned 10 yards. Ennis fumbled but recovered. Hit right end for no gain. Punted 20 to Clover who returned 5 yards. Cox, Kendrick, Clover and Buford made 2 each but failed to make first down ball over to Ennis. By line plunges they made a first down. Held for three downs and punted 20 to Clover who returned 7. Cox and Kendrick made 9 yards but ball went over. Time out for Ennis. Failed to make first down ball over to Mexia. Cats held for three downs and Cox punted 25 to Ennis who returned 7. Made 3 yards on as many plunges. Treadway for Kendrick. Kendrick for Clover. Mexia. Punted 20 to Treadway who returned 10 yards thru Ennis field. Treadway made 3 through center. Treadway made 2 through center. Cox made 4 through center. Fake gummied and ball went over. Sub. Mills for Seely. Mexia. Failed to make 1 first down. Ball to Mexia. Treadway made 1 right end. Kendrick made 7 left end. First down. Thompson made 2 on fake. Lost on fake and were held and ball over to Ennis, as the half ended.

Ennis kicked to Paris who returned 7 yards. Ennis penalized 15 yards for cursing. Held for three downs and Cox punted 15 yards but ball bounded over Ennis safety and rolled about 15 yards before he caught it as he was downed in his tracks. Ennis fumbled in the team's equipment, was so disgusted with the S. M. U. line's failure to have out of their tracks that he almost swore off the "rabbit foot". The one-room shack in the rear of Rankin Hall, which now serves as sleeping quarters for the colored help, bearing the words, "S. M. U. Athletic Association," still visible across the door, recalls the place in the history of S. M. U. which this little building occupies. Few of the present students at S. M. U. are aware that for the first three years of its existence, this little building took the place of a gymnasium. Nearly all its space was used for a shower bathroom. Not over ten men could crowd into it at one time and half of the squad usually had to miss supper each evening after practice or go without a bath.

The equipment in those days was far different from what it is today. The men were issued one uniform each, socks, sweaters and pants. Sometimes they got shoes, especially if they were backfield men and were extra good players. There were no lockers or dressing rooms. The men had to dress in their rooms in the dormitory, furnish their own towels, soap and liniment. A football man who received a charley-horse in those days was usually out for the rest of the season. If he was a favorite on the team, though, he could get a little rubbing treatment from "Garrett" once in a while. The team (barring the substitutes, for they had to wear anything that looked like a uniform)

S. M. U. FOOTBALL HAS ROUGH PERIODS

By WILLIAM KING
Few football fans, though, perhaps, knowers of the Red and Blue Mustangs of the present day—realize the hardships that the Ponies were forced to go through before they won recognition as one of the leading football teams of the South—for there can be no question about the present-day team being one of the foremost football machines in this section of the country.

The story of football at Southern Methodist University dates back to the struggle of the little squad in 1915; how it received a sound trouncing in its first effort, then rallied and surprised the football fans in general by defeating Hendrix College 13 to 2 in the second game played.

That 13 to 2 victory meant almost as much to the club that year as the victories that the Mustangs have achieved over the famous Texas Aggies during the past two seasons.

The defeat of Hendrix was the first victory of the Mustangs on their home ground, played, not on Armstrong Field or in Ownby Oval, but on the hill between the south end of the gymnasium and the athletic field.

S. M. U.'s setback came in her first year. The old men will tell you of the host of stars who entered school the first year to help place S. M. U. on the map and then of her grave mistake, when she joined the T. I. A. A., there being no Southwestern Conference then. As a result of joining the T. I. A. A. all the stars, who were transfers, were ruled ineligible. The whole schedule that year had to be borne by the few freshmen recruits who had to be not only made to go out for the team, but a great number of them had to be shown what a football was. The coaching task fell upon Ray Morrison, whose success so far this season has shown that the disasters of earlier years can be charged to the lack of material and equipment.

In 1916, the second football year in Southern Methodist University's history, the pot boiled over completely. Ray Morrison, assisted by his brother, Dale, had a few more freshmen than in 1915. It appeared that the team that year was going to have a bench and probably a few substitutes, and the whole school was somewhat stirred up over the prospect of having a winning team. The team didn't win a game that year, however, but an important lesson was learned, as a result of which beef was banished from the football line. The line that year contained nothing but 200-pounders and over and was absolutely intact. Even Rice could not ram or penetrate it. She did manage, however, to run around it often enough to pile up 143 points. S. M. U. closed the season remarkably well by playing Southwestern a 9 to 9 tie. It is said that even Garrett, the negro, who was at that time trainer and water boy, and to this day is still a necessary factor usually started the season intact, with bright and shining array, but toward the end of the season they looked as ragged as so many tramps. Nowadays it is quite different. With the services of "Doc" Blackwell, manager and trainer, the football men are well cared for, and especially after each game they are well fed. Each man down to the scrubs has two or three changes of uniforms, a locker for his clothes, and is provided with towels, soap and plenty of shower space. Rubbing tables, bandages, liniments, ankle and knee braces, and other equipment for the injured, something almost unheard of until "Doc's" arrival in 1920, are adequately supplied. A hot water heater is kept going and five or six husky freshmen athletes are kept busy before and after practice each day applying hot towels to the sore muscles. Such is the situation in the south end of S. M. U.'s modern gymnasium, compared with the one-room "Athletic Association" in the rear of the boy's dormitory in the past.

Taking all in all, S. M. U.'s football history and record stacks up well with her growth. Since 1915 and up to the present season she has played 61 games, won 22, lost 32 and tied 7. There has been one or two changes in her coaching staff in the past. J. Burton Rix had charge of the squad in 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920. He retired at the beginning of the 1921 season and Bill Cunningham and "Choc" Kelly, assisted by Ray Morrison, took charge of the team that season. The next year Ray Morrison, assisted by E. Y. Freeland as line coach, was designated as the coach. They were given plenty of material to work on that year and from the showing the 1922 team made, it looks like Morrison and Freeland are now situated permanently out on the hill.

S. M. U. has administered defeat to nearly every team in the conference except Arkansas and Texas. Arkansas has defeated her three times and Texas University once, and that in 1918 to a crippled team on her own soil, 32 to 0. S. M. U. plans to revenge that defeat in 1924, now that she has become a real menace to the large teams in the conference.

For Good, Loose and Sturdy Wear

In a Very Popular Style

Nothing could be more appropriate for the growing boy than this suit, which may be developed serviceably in a variety of attractive fabrics. It is made in sailor style, trimmed with narrow braid.

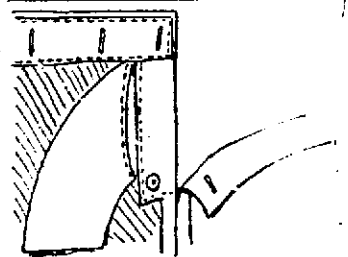

The simple smartness of this suit distinguishes it far above the ordinary, and it is easy for the home dressmaker to copy. Nothing could be more appropriate for the boy who is just beginning to go to school. The trousers are attached to a band, to which the lower edge of the sailor blouse is gathered. They are trimmed with large buttons and may hang in straight lines or be gathered into knickerbocker bands at the knees.

The large collar is of self-material and is stitched with two rows of narrow braid. If cotton materials are used for the blouse the braid is, of course, mercerized. For woolen fabrics silk braid should be used. About 1 1/2 yards will be needed to trim the collar. The emblem on the sleeve of the blouse may be embroidered, or it may be purchased for a small sum, and stitched to the sleeve.

The diagram shows how the pocket is stitched to the edge of the hem of the placket, before the lower edge of the belt is finally stitched down. The reverse side of the pocket is basted to the reverse side of the hem. As the pocket is made of drill or some equally sturdy material, the thread used for the stitching should be strong. Many home dressmakers use linen thread in making boys' clothing because of its extra strength, considering that the wear it gives justifies the slightly increased cost of the thread.

There are many fabrics in which this suit may be duplicated. This season, for boys, as well as for men, fashion seems to give prominence to fine mixed cassimere and chevots. These come in herringbone weaves, plaids, plain effects, visible checks, serges and twillcoats from which small boys' suits may be made.

For the Growing Boy

The smart colors are chiefly light and dark shades of brown, gray, tan and very dark navy blue. In the matter of ties, boys are rather fastidious this year. They like bright colors, as do the girls. With a dark suit a bright red or a green tie is quite appropriate. There are also many new plaids among the season's novelties.

Some of the suits for small boys that Paris has sent over for Autumn and Winter wear have bands of very narrow braid stitched down the sides. Many are made of brown black and dark blue velvet.

Satin Crepe for Nightgowns

A New Line Makes for Novelty

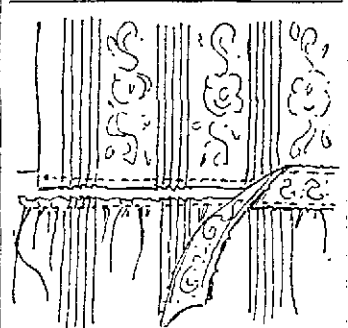

Here is a really skillful replica of the latest Paris fashion in nightgowns. It is trimmed with tucks, lace insertion and ribbon and the fashionable absence of sleeves adds to its interest.

The dominant new note in the season's lingerie is the introduction of satin crepe for nightgowns, step-ins, etc. Of course, this is a luxury in which brides will mostly indulge, but the creations that come from France may be duplicated in less expensive materials and trimmings.

This nightgown is smartly minus sleeves, as will be noted. The upper portion is formed of tucks, alternating with bands of insertion, and around the top and sides of the yoke is a narrower band of lace contrasting design, finished with an edging to match. The lower part of the armhole is definitely shaped, presumably for comfort. Of course, the woman who desires a sleeve or a shoulder cap, could easily add same by making a shoulder strap of lace or of the satin and stitching to it.

The fullness in the lower part of the gown is taken up with fine hand-run tucks, arranged in groups. These appear in both the front and back of the nightgown. The figure shows how the upper and lower sections of the garment are joined to a band. If preferred, linen tape may be used. The yoke is stitched to the upper edge of the tape, and the gown to the lower edge, each about 1 1/4 of an inch from the edge. Stitch down securely, either by hand or on the machine. Over this basic a band of lace insertion, or veining through which ribbon may be run, if desired. The insertion is then sewed down closely, with fine back-stitches.

The Latest Vogue in Nightgowns

The nightgown calls for 2 1/2 yards of crepe satin 36 inches wide, with 3 yards of wide and 2 yards of narrow lace insertion. Two and three-quarter yards of edging and 2 1/2 yards of ribbon complete the list of requirements. The quantities are the same if any other fabric than crepe satin is used, provided it is at least 36 inches in width.

"ENTER MADAME" SCREEN HIT

Never have star and story been more admirably matched than in the presentation of Clara Kimball Young in "Enter Madame." Herself a glamorous personality, Miss Young plays, in this picture, founded on the stage success by Gilda Varesi and Dolly Byrne, the character of Lisa Della Robbia with a stateliness and whimsical charm that make perfect the illusion of impersonation. By all odds, "Enter Madame" is the best thing the star has done; hers is a fine and finished and winning performance and it goes without saying that this Metro picture constitutes an event in Metro entertainment no one should miss. It will be shown Monday at the Grand Theatre.

Like most of those of real merit, the story of "Enter Madame" is not complex or confusing, having to do with the attempt of a prima donna of the opera to win back her husband, who, through her neglect, has become so far attached to another, and what one might call a comfy woman, as to be determined upon divorce for the great Della Robbia. Elliott Dexter, as the weakening husband, Gerald Dresser, as the soft and scheming Boston widow, is quite pleasantly hateful; and others in the cast, including Arthur Rankin, Mary Jane Sanderson, Lionel Belmore, Wedgewood Nowell, Rosita Marstini, Orra Devereaux and George Kuwa are more than competent. The picture, a Metro release, was reproduced by Harry Garson. The direction is by Wallace Worley; the scenario by Frank Beresford. L. William O'Connell photographed it.

are added deep, shallow puffs that are gathered at the lower edge into straight bands of velvet. Above the velvet band that serves for a cuff on each sleeve is a modified Grecian border, worked in outline stitch with heavy robe silk. Two shades of one color may be used in employing the velvet and embroidery for ornamental effect. If black is used for the blouse, then nothing would be smarter for the trimming than tan and Chinese blue, or tan and red, or pale yellow and green. While dark colors form the background of most of the blouses and frocks that come from Paris this season, the trimmings are certainly gay and spirited as it is possible to have them.

For the hand into which the lower edge of the blouse is gathered, two unbroken strips of velvet are used, one at the upper edge and one at the lower. Between these two strips of velvet, the outline stitch, illustrated in Fig. 11, is worked. Above the hip-bands are smaller strips of velvet with the outline stitch worked around them. These strips are first basted to the blouse as pictured in Fig. 1. Here they take the place of the little finger pocket of which Paris dressmakers are fond this year. The outline stitch embroidery is used again at the jointure of sleeve and extension, but only the velvet ribbon is employed at the ends of the tie-scarf, which is run through the front of the collar. The edges of the scarf are deeply fringed.

The neck is finished with a band of velvet, bound with the blouse material. This is quite a favorite idea with smart Parisiennes this season, and of course, what is true of Paris is true of the other style centers of the world. To the kimono sleeves

BRITAIN'S SPLIT WITH FRANCE MOMENTARILY POSTPONED

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Nov. 17.—Today's meeting of the Council of Ambassadors has been postponed, thus deferring the expected split between Britain and France.

It was anticipated that the Council would meet today and that British and French viewpoints would be so divergent that the session would break up. Cancellation of the meeting averts this.

It is surmised that the British and French Ambassadors' views on what shall be done with the former Crown Prince and control of German armaments are irreconcilable.

Premier Poincare's strong speech in the Chamber on Friday, wherein he expressed the hope of maintaining the Entente, but refused to change the French policy in any degree, has left the next move up to Britain.

Poincare, loudly cheered by the deputies at frequent intervals, hotly accused the British representatives in the Ambassadors' council of supporting the Germans against the French on some issues.

If the British stand pat, the Entente is as good as ended right now, it is believed here. Even without any open and spectacular split in a meeting of the Ambassadors' council, co-operation between the two great allies will be done with.

Poincare struck out in all directions. He denounced the plan for an expert examination of Germany's capacity to pay, recently put forward by Secretary of State Hughes, as a trick to force a reduction in reparations engineered by foreign bankers. America and Britain, he said, need not expect payment of interallied debts until Germany's reparations are paid.

The speech caused a sensation

Walton Withdraws From Trial By The Sooner Legislature

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17.—"I have reached the conclusion that I cannot have a fair trial in this court. I hereby withdraw."

Governor J. C. Walton amazed the Senate Court impeachment, rising from a midst of his counsel and making this statement.

Shortly after Governor Walton withdrew, the senate court was thrown into an uproar by attempt of Senator Anglin, President Pro-Tem Senate, attack on Mr. Sprague one of Walton's counsels. Anglin was held off and the senate recessed for twenty minutes.

Mr. Anglin stated that he understood that all subpoenas for witnesses for the governor has been withdrawn. Sprague said he didn't believe such a statement had been made. Anglin screamed something about being called a "liar."

The governor's statement followed the hearing of testimony regarding Ku Klux Klan offered by the executive counsel. Walton rose, pale of face and with voice not entirely steady said: "I have been sitting here fighting for honor and life. I don't wish to criticize any members of the court, but I have reached the conclusion that I cannot have a fair trial in this court, thereby, for my sake and the sake of my wife and children upon which this unfair trial reflects, I withdraw." "You may proceed as you see fit."

Outset of Governor Walton was made certain today by action of the suspended executive in withdrawing his defense.

Little Girl Has Leg Broken When Hit By an Auto

Last Friday, little Miss Ward, residing with her parents near the ball park in the south part of the city, was run over by an automobile sustaining a broken leg. She was crossing Commerce street in front of the Cox-Forrest Drug Store. It is said that she was looking backward at the time of the accident and ran into the side of the car which had already partly crossed her path, falling so that she fell under the rear wheels. Ladies were occupants of the car and they were driving slowly, spectators say, and they did not know of the accident until accosted down the street. They were much grieved at the accident. Gene Sinclair picked up the little girl, who appeared to be about 10 years old, and medical treatment was administered quickly.

This was two auto accidents for the twenty four hour period just preceding, J. R. Truett and Miss Edith Speer having been run over by a car at Ross and Commerce the night before.

Among those who have signified their intention of attending the Texas-A. & M. Turkey Day game at College Station are: Machon Forrest, Rufus Peoples, Major Vickers, Oran Arrington, John Corley, Jr., Marcus Corley, Mr. and Mrs. Willford Oliphant, Val Horn, Miss Maud De Long, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Puckett, Carlos Clover, Coach Potet of the High School, Mr. and Mrs. Jere Cason, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hearne, Miss Christine Kendrick, C. L. Tatum, A. Garland Adair, George A. Lee, Jimmie T. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Z. Rochelle, Mr. and Mrs. W. Perry.

The entire front of the H. C. Roller building on Commerce street has been torn down and is being rebuilt with new brick and plate glass front of ten feet on the alley. When finished it will be one of the most imposing business houses here and will be occupied by the Boston store. T. F. Denning, contractor, is doing the work.

HUSBAND AND WIFE WIN HONORS AT SAME COLLEGE.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Sudds.

Instead of leaving his wife behind when he entered Penn State College, Richard W. Sudds, of Butler, Pa., took her along. It proved a wise move, for both have won honors. The husband stood at the head of the present junior class, with an average of 91.7 per cent, while the wife stands 15th in a class of more than 800. Both have been awarded Honor Society Council medals for the excellence of their work.
